

Homeowners win and lose: alley blocked, zoning ok'd

By Lynne Locke

Groups of Upland homeowners won one and lost one at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

In one action the council agreed with residents to block access to the Second Avenue alley from McDonald's restaurant in order to cut traffic in the alley.

In another action council members approved multiple-family zoning in spite of opposition from adjacent residents in the Shelly Square single-family residential development.

The Planning Commission had initiated the study of the north-south alley between First and Second avenues after hearing complaints from residents that use of the alley by McDonald's customers creates a traffic and litter problem.

Tuesday night the council approved installation of a barrier between the McDonald's parking lot and the alley to prevent customers from using the alley as a southerly exit from McDonald's.

The Planning Commission has recommended barriers in both the First and Second avenue alleys to prohibit use of the alleys as streets between 11th Street and Foothill Boulevard.

Residents affected by the proposed alley closure were split on whether controlling traffic or maintaining full access to their backyards was more important.

Installation of barriers, creating a horseshoe-shaped alley for residents south of the McDonald's site, would have created access problems for owners of recreational vehicles, according to Jay Thrasher.

Council members chose the alternative of blocking McDonald's access to the alley as the simplest solution with the least adverse effects on adjacent residents and noted residents can request additional measures if the problem continues.

The council also directed the city staff to place stop signs at the 11th Street openings of the alleys to increase safety for children crossing the alleys to and from school.

In the multiple-family action Tuesday night councilmembers chose a compromise between the staff recommendation and residents' requests and approved condominium zoning with a designation allowing special control by the council.

The area, north and south of Ninth Street between Euclid and San Antonio avenues, including both multiple-family and more recent single-family developments as well as churches, existing commercial uses and older homes.

Single-family residents of the Shelly Square development at the southeast corner of Ninth Street and San Antonio Avenue have opposed development of apartment both adjacent to have them and across the street for fear apartments would increase traffic problems and decrease the value of their homes.

The council voted, without discussion, to continue apartment zoning with a lesser density than previously allowed for properties north of Ninth Street.

The council rejected a Planning Commission recommendation to approve single-family residential zoning and approved condominiums on the south side of Ninth street.

Although the area is adjacent to the Shelly Square single-family homes, council members supported a cluster-type development which city staff said is needed to deal with the severe drainage problems on the property.

Because the zoning approved by council would allow apartments as well as condominiums, members approved an added designation requiring special review of any development for the parcel.

Through the special review procedure council members can ensure that the area is developed into condominiums rather than high-density apartments as the adjacent residents fear.

Although the condominium density is slightly higher than the adjacent single-family density, Planning Director Bill Young noted condominiums normally house fewer residents totally and only half the number of children expected in a single-family development.

Chaffey Joint Union High School District

Twelve seek three school board seats

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles detailing the platforms and experience of candidates for the Chaffey Joint Union High School District Board of Trustees.

By Lynne Locke

Twelve candidates are running for three positions on the Chaffey Joint Union High School District Board of Trustees.

Candidates include Patrick McHugh and incumbents G.A. Chalfant and Martha T. Chapman of Ontario.

Other candidates include Paul J. Gomez, Excell N. Hunter, Maxine M. Curtis, Ralph S. Langley, all of Upland; and Charles J. Uhalley and Robert C. Beam of Cucamonga.

Also Clifford L. Sumrall of Etiwanda and William C. Draper and Frank Andrew Brown of Ontario.

All 12 candidates were invited to submit statements about their stands on education issues. Draper, Brown and Beam did not respond. McHugh is no longer actively campaigning because of the pressure of family and business matters.

Clifford Sumrall

Sumrall listed curriculum, discipline and crowded schools as the district's most important problems.

He cited the importance of strengthening educational curriculum and commented, "Dick and Jane are in a new and fast-moving world with curriculum (educational experiences) being the basis on which their ability to cope with life must rest."

Sumrall advocated a "firm, fair discipline policy" and noted the educational environment "must be positive and cannot afford to be disrupted by the few at the expense of the whole."

"Every effort" should be made to motivate students who do not understand the value of education, he said.

Sumrall pledged "an in-depth review" of solutions for crowded schools caused by population growth. Presently he believes boundary shifting would provide "the least amount of harm to students."

Other possibilities to be studied include a bond election, year-round school, temporary buildings, staggered sessions, and half-day sessions.

He has been endorsed by the Associated Chaffey Teachers (ACT).

Sumrall is a director of forensics and speech at Chaffey College and serves as forensics consultant for the University of California.

He was named teacher of the year in 1967 and 1968 and has served as an officer for the local, county, and state teachers association.

Sumrall, who is an Etiwanda resident, served on the Riverside Superintendent of Schools advisory committee.

Charles Uhalley

Uhalley lists quality of education, school financing and board of trustees leadership as the most important issues facing the district.

He favors increasing graduation requirements and restoring a six-period day in order to improve the quality of education. With a sound educational basis, district students will be prepared to compete for jobs or continue their education, he noted.

Uhalley "firmly believes in fiscal responsibility" and said the district budget should be "carefully scrutinized." He pledged to "see that the district is efficiently managed and dedicated to the educational needs of all students."

The district should have an "effective voice in Sacramento" through the California School Board Association to ensure that school financing changes caused by the Serrano-Priest decision will help rather than hurt the district, Uhalley said.

A "credibility gap" between the district and the community has resulted in loss of community support, he said and added "A strong positive voice on the board can bring harmony on the board itself and regain the confidence of the community."

Uhalley, who has been a tricom-munity resident for five years, has been endorsed by the West End Public Employees Coalition (WEPEC) and Associated Chaffey Teachers (ACT).

He is an attorney in practice in Pomona and formerly worked with young people as an adoption social worker. Uhalley is a graduate of Chaffey College, University of California at Riverside, and La Verne College Law Center.

Martha Chapman

Mrs. Chapman listed the need for school facilities to meet growing population needs, emphasis on educational basics and improving communication as the most important needs for the district.

"One of the most important educational issues facing the community as well as the school district is the responsibility of providing the facilities necessary for equal educational opportunities — especially in the rapidly growing areas of Alta Loma, Upland, and Mountain View," she said.

Mrs. Chapman noted taxpayers could authorize the district to provide adequate facilities by approving a bond election. If a bond election is not successful, she said, the Board of Trustees must take the responsibility of providing a classroom facilities "by other means."

Citing the importance of education basics, Mrs. Chapman said the educational standards should be improved to meet the criteria established by the district Competencies Task Force.

Educational basics should be taught in a variety of ways "appropriate to the variety of ways in which young people learn," she said and added every student — including those who are college-bound — should have the opportunity "to finish high school with a marketable skill."

Good rapport between all segments of education is "vital to important to a good learning environment," according to Mrs. Chapman who said "steps should be taken" to improve communications among community residents, administrators, teachers, board members and school staff members.

Mrs. Chapman has served on the high school board four years. She has served as clerk of the board and has represented the district on the Baidy View Regional Occupational Program (ROP) Commission.

Mrs. Chapman said her record shows she represents "the total community" rather than any special interest group and added, "I have a layman's relationship to public education and an unselfish interest in the public schools." She is an Ontario resident.

G.A. Chalfant

Chalfant listed curriculum, competency evaluation, and classroom facilities as the most important issues for the district. The district is organizing a group of basic courses to ensure students receive a solid foundation in fundamentals as well as having access to a wide range of elective courses, he said.

In addition, the district has established a basic level of competency students must achieve in order to graduate. Competency levels will ensure that "real learning has taken place," Chalfant noted and added he has been personally involved in formulating both the basic course requirements and the competency testing.

Chalfant said teachers, students and parents must join the school board in determining solutions for over-crowded classroom conditions — especially at Alta Loma and Ontario high schools where construction of new homes is providing increasing numbers of students.

"Our mostly likely alternative choices are not happy ones, and no solution will be without its cost either to students or to taxpayers," he noted.

Chalfant, who is an Ontario resident, has been a school board member eight years, serving as president of the board the last three years.

He has a business management background of 30 years, managing two manufacturing firms with 200 employees.

Eight in Central School District board race

By Lynne Locke
Eight candidates are running for three seats in the March 8 election for Central School District (Cucamonga) Board of Trustees.

Candidates include incumbents Patton Lewis and Benjamin L. Mackall III. Other candidates are Bruce A. Van Orden, Richard J. Clements, Dale E. Taylor, Pamela J. Wright, Beatrice Arvizu Ross and Gedlie Ross.

All eight candidates were invited to submit statements about their stands on education issues. Mackall, Clements, and Mrs. Ross did not respond.

Gedlie Ross

Ross lists communication, education fundamentals, and the importance of education as the most important issues for the district.

The board "should take the initiative in opening up meaningful communication" with the community in order to explain the importance of a sound education, he said and suggested advisory groups be formed to communicate the thoughts of the community at large.

Ross "advocates more solids no substitutes" and added students should receive a full day of school, should have homework, and should be taught "respect for property, home, teachers and community in general."

In addition, he said, "there should be sufficient counseling to parents so there would be more motivation of students, teachers and community."

Students do not understand the importance of education, Ross said and added that education is "hard work and it takes time, money, sacrifice and dedication to make it possible."

'Y' sets fitness plan

The West End YMCA will be offering a new fun-and-fitness program for boys and girls.

Further information and class times may be obtained by calling Paetau at the West End YMCA, 986-5847.

Ross is a Cucamonga property owner and resident for 25 years. "I have adopted this friendly community. Now that I have retired I wish to work and serve the community of Cucamonga," he said.

Bruce Van Orden

Van Orden listed better communication, better morale, and selection of new teachers and textbooks as important issues for the district.

"I sense a need for better communication between the administration and the teachers and the school district and the public generally," he said and noted he would try to be accessible to teachers, parents and administrators to discuss issues they feel are important.

Better teachers and student morale would "naturally result" from better communication, Van Orden said and added he would also work for teachers and staff salaries that would be average of salaries in surrounding districts.

He said a teacher from each school should be on the committee that selects new teachers, and suggested a committee should include representatives of the school board, and parents as well as administration, teachers from each grade level and school.

Van Orden has nine years of experience in teaching and administration in seminars and institutes of religion. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees.

Patton Lewis

Lewis listed classroom space, collective bargaining, and finances as the three most important issues for the district.

The construction of more classroom space is top priority, he said and added students learn best in classes with not more than 28-30 students and with a five-hour day rather than the present double-session day.

Reaching a fair district-teacher agreement is "vital" to the district's educational capability; otherwise both teacher and management energy "will continue to be wasted on noneducational matters," he commented.

Central District must be financially responsible, Lewis said and noted the district must maintain a 6-10 per cent reserve for emergencies; provide salary increases "commensurate with rising prices"; purchase necessary equipment, supplies, and services; and keep spending within the funds available to the district.

Lewis has served on the school board four years and presently is board president. He holds a degree in engineering and works as a technical manager in industry.

Pamela Wright

Mrs. Wright listed space, budget priorities, and communication as the most important issues facing the district.

The district is "drastically over-crowded and things can only get worse," she said and noted she is "100 per cent" for the passage of the bond issue which would allow the district to provide additional classroom facilities.

Mrs. Wright said the school board should be "more receptive to citizen input and should open communication with parents and with teachers, who have "first-hand knowledge" of classroom issues.

District decisions often require experience or knowledge board members do not have, according to Mrs. Wright, who said they should be receptive to teacher input rather than "rubber stamping or relying entirely on administration advice."

Mrs. Wright presently serves as coordinator of volunteers for the March 8 district school bond issue, and as Central School PTA president. She also serves on the district advisory committee and is an Early Childhood Education aide.

In addition she has served on several district committees and regularly attends school board meetings. Mrs. Wright is a founding parent of the Foothill cooperative nursery school.

Dale Taylor

Taylor said the most important issues for the district are over-crowding of schools, quality education, and financial responsibility.

With the over-crowded schools as the district's "most pressing problems," Taylor said additional schools are needed "immediately" and urged voters to accept "their responsibility to educate the children" and approve the bond issue on the March 8 ballot.

"The district must adopt innovative policies to improve the quality of education," he commented noting, "The children of our district have traditionally scored low in the statewide achievement tests."

With rising educational costs, Taylor noted the importance of a school board that is "financially responsible while being sensitive" to needs of district families.

He said a school board "knowledgeable of California school finance" is necessary in order for the district to receive maximum benefits from the school finance reform expected in the next two years.

He is a business assistant for Pomona Unified School District, and previously served as audit manager for several school districts when he was employed by a firm of certified public accountants.

Taylor is a member of the district advisory committee and BONDS committee.

Unemployment rate drops

The seasonally - adjusted unemployment rate for the Riverside-San Bernardino Counties area in January decreased to 9.3 percent from December's 9.5 percent, the state's Employment Development Department (EDD) reported. The new rate compared with 10.1 percent one year ago.

Although unemployment over the month climbed by 1,700 to 46,700, the increase was not large enough to adversely influence the seasonal rate. Over the year, unemployment in the bi-county area declined by 4,400 (8.6 percent).

Total civilian employment decreased between December and January by 8,600 to 439,400. However, this was 4,400 higher (1.0 percent) than January 1976.

Reflecting the usual December to January trend, the number of non-agricultural wage and salary workers dropped by 4,500 to 347,200. Over the year, there was an increase here of almost 3.0 percent.

Employment summary by major industrial groups:

Trade — Retail trade accounted for the largest over-the-month decline (3,200), lowering the number of employees to 69,900 as temporary staff hired for the holiday season were reduced in almost all outlets.

The wholesale sector remained constant at 13,400.

Construction — Employment in the construction industry dropped by 900 to a January figure of 12,200, the lowest since February 1976.

Manufacturing — Factory employment went down by 300 in January to 52,900. The loss was entirely in nondurable goods distributed among food processing, apparel, rubber and plastic products. Durable goods remained at 38,400 workers, 5.2 percent higher than one year ago.

Government (including federal, state, county, city and education employees) — Employment here declined by 200 to 92,100, reflecting seasonal cutbacks in nondefense federal agencies. The number of workers on the state and local levels remained the same over the month.

Service Industries (including medical and health services, hotels and motels, recreational groups, garages and repair services, and other miscellaneous business services) — A decrease of 100 workers was posted, for a total of 71,800. Increases in hotels, recreation and personal service firms offset decreases in medical services and nonprofit organizations.

Mineral Extraction — The mining industry posted the only gain over the month (300), as rehiring at one of the major facilities boosted employment to 2,300, the highest since last October.

Agriculture — Farm employment went down by 1,900 workers over the month for a January total of 19,800. A seasonal slowing in harvest activities for mixed vegetables and lemons and completion of the fall lettuce harvest accounted for most of the decreases.

Authority backs transit measure

A move by Claremont, La Verne and Pomona to secede from the Southern California Rapid Transit District was endorsed Thursday by the board of the West Valley Transit Service Authority.

Upland City Manager Lee Travers proposed the endorsement, saying the cities' withdrawal to join the West Valley system "would create a more logical transportation network."

Letters will be sent by the West Valley board to the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission and the San Bernardino Associated Governments. Both are responsible for transportation planning in their counties.

Claremont Mayor Bertie Smith told the board Thursday of the cities' request, saying the Los Angeles County commission has not yet responded.

Under a state law which took effect Jan. 1, the commission assumed all transportation planning duties from the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

Second paper drive

Alta Loma Junior High School will conduct its second paper drive of the year, beginning Feb. 24.

Papers should be brought to the school tied in bundles, or in bags during school hours. The drive is sponsored by the PTA.

BOOKS — Some of the 191 books recently presented to Foothill Knolls Elementary School in memory of Mrs. Marlys Hite are stacked in front of Principal James H. Smith (left) and Becky Schwarzer, the school advisory committee chairwoman.

Mrs. Hite taught at the Upland school from 1967 to 1976. The books, which will be used in classrooms throughout the school, were paid for by children's participation in a book fair held the week of Jan. 10.

County won't increase toll-free phone lines

The San Bernardino County General Services Agency has conducted a study of the toll-free telephone line (800-472-5694) used by West End residents to call county offices including Supervisors Robert Townsend and Joe Kamansky.

The study was requested by Kamansky to investigate problems experienced by some local residents who have discovered the toll-free line is often busy, requiring a toll call if they wish to talk with supervisors or other county officials.

Kamansky said the study concluded that problems in "getting through on this line" are simply a matter of a large number of people attempting to use the line.

The county has determined "it would be most practical to continue the present level of service" after reviewing the alternatives available. Kamansky reported and added, "Of course if serious problems or complaints arise in the future as a result of this line, another course of action may have to be undertaken."

He also noted the toll-free line has more use during special periods such as prior to the deadline for paying property taxes.

Homeowners exemptions

This week, more than 129,000 homeowners in San Bernardino County will receive notices from County

Assessor Robert Herbin concerning their $1,750 homeowners exemptions (HOX). The notices will be in two forms. Persons who have filed previously will receive a "termination-correction" notice, advising that their claim is on file. If the information on the notice is correct, the property owner need do nothing, but retain the form for records. If the information is in error, the property owner should correct the information and return the form to the assessor. If the property owner is no longer eligible for the exemption, the form should be signed and returned. Stiff penalties of 25 per cent must be levied if a property owner who is no longer eligible does not cancel his or her exemption, Herbin said. Reasons for ineligibility include the sale of the property, or a change in residence from past years.

New claim forms will also be mailed to new homeowners who have not filed on the residence in the past year. These must be filled out and returned to Herbin's office by April 15. Property owners who are eligible for the HOX and do not receive either the termination-correction notice or the new claim form by March 10 should file a claim with the assessor at the Hall of Records in San Bernardino, or at any of the assessor's field offices throughout the county. The last day to file and receive the full $1,750 Exemption is April 15. For information call Herbin's San Bernardino office, or contact the local field office, 310 W. B. St., Ontario, 988-1361.

New tree trimming procedure

To help citizens of Upland better understand their city's responsibilities and to get answers on city government, John Shoemaker, Upland community relations coordinator, is bringing City Hall to the people through the courtesy of the Upland News. The column "The Town Crier" is designed to be informative on all issues of city government.

To reach "The Town Crier," write: Community Relations, City of Upland, 460 N. Euclid Ave., Upland, CA 91786. Persons should include their name, address and telephone number. Only initials will be listed in the column.

SPECIAL NOTE: Upland City Council Feb. 7 approved the tree trimming methodologies recommended by General Services Director Ken Hoover. What this means is that there will be a different method in the scheduling and trimming of the 38,000 - 40,000 trees from the prior procedures. Citizen requests for pruning/trimming trees from now on will be evaluated. Those that meet the criterion will be serviced and all others will be serviced when their area is scheduled.

QUESTION: Can you tell me about beautification ideas or where I may go for ideas to adopt for our new home? C.M.

ANSWER: Here is an idea how to get a beautification program for your own property and it may also stimulate the neighborhood.

Picture in your mind (or take a picture) what trees or shrubs or fences or walkways would do for the appearance. (Hint: don't think on too grand a scale. Big results are almost always accomplished in little steps.)

Consult with the experts—your nurseryman, knowledgeable neighbors, members of the Upland Planning Department, and others. This will cost you nothing and it could save you time and money and improve the end result.

Draft a "master plan," spelling out what has to be done and when and how much it will cost.

Acquaint your neighbors with your plan; hopefully, it will spur them to similar action and possible neighborhood projects.

Follow the plan to completion.

Watch the newspaper for sales of plants or building materials. You probably will be able to complete the plan with a minimum of outside help. If your plans involve structural changes, make sure you check with the city for pertinent regulations.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the duties of a maintenance foreman? M.S.

ANSWER: Upland's General Service Department has three such positions which are capable administered by three rugged, austere men: Dan Anglin, Al Hinojos and Don Niederlander. Under general supervision they participate in the planning, organization, and coordination of work programs such as street construction, maintenance, and repair, street tree planting, trimming, and general care; street sweeping, sewer maintenance and debris removal; directly supervise crews engaged in a variety of construction maintenance and repair activities; schedule projects on day-to-day basis, request necessary materials and equipment and assign projects to crews; give instruction in proper work procedure, safety practices, departmental policies and related requirements; review work of crews while in progress and on completion; receive and resolve complaints and problems concerning personnel supervised or work of the unit; participate in the selection and evaluation of personnel; keep records on maintenance activities and may prepare written and oral reports, and make recommendations on equipment and personnel needs.

SPECIAL NOTE FROM THE CITY MANAGER'S OFFICE:

At their regular meeting February 7, the Upland City Council took an action which culminated a significant period of concern for the best method to ensure the continued high quality of residential environment of the city. The rapid escalation of building activity in Upland has brought forth many expressions of similar concern from citizens with demands for action on the part of the council to achieve a more orderly growth than has been apparent in the past year. The year 1975 saw 27 residential subdivisions reviewed which created 970 lots; the year 1976 saw 49 such subdivisions creating 1,652 lots; and a projection of the submissions in 1977 to date would indicate that there are more than 3,000 additional lots planned. At the present time there are 1,683 residential units either under construction or expected to commence within the next 12 months.

The current work load on city staff is such that it appeared impossible to devise fair and appropriate growth control procedures while carrying on required current work loads and accordingly the City Council enacted an urgency ordinance calling for a 120-day period, effective immediately, during which time the city would not accept filings for residential subdivisions, planned unit development, or planned residential development; or site plans for multiple family residential developments. Not affected by the moratorium are commercial or industrial proposals or simple parcel maps. Those developments that had been filed with the city prior will be processed through normal city procedures and will be unaffected by the moratorium.

During the 120-day period a city staff task force will work diligently to develop objective criteria for the establishment of rates of residential growth, appropriate areas, and equity to those persons and firms desirous of developing land within the city. Input will be solicited from affected community groups and from the business community.

Questions on the effect of the moratorium on particular development proposals may be discussed with the city departments that would normally process the matter in question.

Club honors Citizenship Award winners

The annual Soroptimist Youth Citizenship Awards Contest winners were honored recently at a luncheon held by the Soroptimist Club of Ontario at the Magic Lamp Inn, Cucamonga.

Four Upland High School students were recognized for their winning entries in the contest.

Steven Lee Morris was the top winner and received a check for $100. His entry will continue to the district level for judging. Should the entry win there, it will continue to judging on the region level which includes Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico and El Paso, Tex. The regional winner's entry will then go for final judging on the federation level in Philadelphia, Pa.

Morris plans to enter either UCLA or Stanford University and major in engineering and minor in biology. His plans are not definite except that he wants to be either a physician or an engineer. During his high school years, he has been on the school newspaper and plans to continue his interests in journalism while in college.

Second place was won by Karen Dee Loney and she was given a check for $50. She has aspirations of "helping people in some manner" and she plans to become a speech therapist. She has been involved in work at her church.

Iris Woodruff and Cheryl Ann Emrich were runner-ups and both received checks for $25. Miss Woodruff plans on seven years of college as she wants to become a law student. She hopes to attend the University of Dallas, but if that is not possible, she will go to Chaffey College and possibly enter Wheaton College in Wheaton, Ill. her desire is to be a judge in juvenile court so she can help young people.

Miss Emrich plans to become a physical therapist and will attend Long Beach State University. Both were active in their churches and Miss Emrich went to Europe with a church group.

Other students who entered the contest were Edward Mosely, Julie Flammong and John Kalbach, all of Upland High School, and Bruce Beardwood, Paul Beardwood and Kim Hams of Chaffey High School. Judges were Mrs. Edward Hanzlik, Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mrs. Robert Wiesel, Mrs. John Norton and Mrs. Gordon Collet.

Attending the luncheon with the students were George Stewart and Joan Weller, Upland High School counselors.

The applicants were chosen for their leadership and dependability in school and community service. Submitted in essay form, each entry was accompanied by three letters of recommendation attesting to the character and community and school service of the entrant. Each entrant also had to submit a statement they had written on their roles in the family, community and as world citizens.

Ruth Aylor was chairman of the awards committee and introduced each one. Ruth Long Wheeler, Soroptimist Club president, presented the checks to the winners.

Edison's electric light. Guerrucci, who lives in Cucamonga, received the first grand prize, a $100 United States Savings Bond. He competed among seventh through 12th grade students in seven counties in designing a device for saving energy.

Student wins top prize in conservation contest

Alta Loma High School senior Fernando Guerrucci received the first grand prize Feb. 10 in a Southern California Community Energy Conservation Contest among seventh through 12th grade students in seven counties.

Guerrucci, who lives in Cucamonga, received his prize, a $100 United States Savings Bond, in a special Thomas Alva Edison Conservation Day program at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles.

His conservation idea was a homemade device to turn off the power to the transformer of an "instant on" television set, without unplugging the set at the wall. Guerrucci's device, part of the wall plug, included a switch and indicator light to show when the power transformer is turned on.

More than 100 winners of preliminary local contests from scores of communities attended the half-day program, along with representatives of more than 40 chambers of commerce, which cosponsored the contest with Southern California Edison Company.

Officials of two major state and federal agencies involved in energy conservation were among speakers at the event. They were: Robert Foster, chief of the conservation division of the California Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission; and Harry M. Dotson, conservation officer, region 9 (Los Angeles) of the Federal Energy Administration. Students were invited to submit energy saving ideas in the form of essays or drawings. Judging was based on originality and practicality.

Second grand prize of a $50 Savings Bond went to David Rompf, and 11th grade student at Western High School in Anaheim.

Third grand prize, a $25 Savings Bond, went to Curtis Gilbert, a student at Foothill Intermediate School in La Canada.

David J. Fogarty, Edison Company vice president, presented the awards and also gave each of the three grand prize winners a replica of Thomas Alva Edison's original incandescent electric light bulb.

Chamber of commerce members judged the local contests.

Winning entries from each area were sent to the Edison Company Research and Development Department for selection of the three grand prize winners.

The contest was part of the observance of "Conservation Month" in January, according to Fogarty. Local governments, business, industry and schools cooperated in the effort to promote conservation of all types of energy, he said.

'Women of the Bible' set Sunday

Women make TV debut

Twenty-five local churchwomen will make their television debut as "Women of the Bible" 7-9:30 a.m. Sunday on KABC-channel 7's "Dimensions." "Women of the Bible" was created to present Bible women "as individual personalities with the basic need of all womankind," according to Dorothy Bingham of Church Women United who coordinated the project.

The 25 women, representing 14 local churches, "bring to life" both Old and New Testament women. Mrs. Bingham said and commented "the program is important because even church women don't know about women in the Bible."

The program attempts to "emphasize the creative power of faith, hope and love in contrast to the negative and destructive force of wrong choices and decision," she said.

Mrs. Bingham said she hopes the program, which is also being performed in local churches, will "stimulate a desire to know more of the Bible" and will encourage others to "pass on American's Judeo-Christian heritage to the coming generation."

The "Women in the Bible" project started with a large donation of fabric by Dawain and Jean Haider. Costumes for the 25 characters were created under the direction of Laura Henry, Chaffey College adult education teacher.

The program has been presented at several area churches, according to Mrs. Bingham who said the costumes and narration are available for church women who would like to stage the presentation in their own churches.

Sunday's televised showing of "Women in the Bible" will be presented by Mary Dorr of "Religion in Media," which produces more than 500 programs monthly for radio and television. "Religion in Media" is an inter-religious and interdenominational association.

Old Testament women will be presented by Marty Thomas of First United Methodist Church of Ontario, Sarah; Leona Fedley of Upland First Presbyterian, Hagar; Juanita Oliva of Our Lady of Guadalupe of Ontario, Rebecca; and Toni Villanueva, of St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Upland, Leah.

Others are Helena Casenave of Upland First Presbyterian, Rachel; Mikia Haider, Seventh Street Mennonite of Upland, Miriam; Marge Katona of Upland First Presbyterian, Deborah; and Anita Funk of Upland Christian, Delilah.

Also Grace Schrock, Seventh Street Mennonite, Naomi; Norma Albrecht of Upland First Mennonite, Ruth; Lois Hanna, of Trinity United Methodist of Ontario, Hannah; Willa Stewart McEroy of True Church of God in Christ of Ontario, Abigail; Donna Hill of Upland Christian, Jezebel; and Esther Mandel of Sharon chapter of Hadassah, Esther.

New Testament women will be presented by Elaine

Symonds of Ontario First Christian, Mary the Madonna; Juanita Navarro of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Elizabeth; Phyllis Wirt of Ontario First Christian, woman of Samaria; and Rebecca Davidson of Pomona Unity Church, Mary Magdalene.

Others are Jean Haider of Seventh Street Mennonite, Martha; Mary Wallace of Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints of Upland, Mary; Theima Robinson of Ontario First Christian, Mary at the cross; and Matilda Ritzel of Trinity United Methodist, Dorcas.

Also Laura Henry of St. Peter and St. Paul's Catholic Church of Alta Loma, Priscilla; Betty Yukech of Upland First United Methodist, Lydia; and Betty Wheatley of Trinity United Methodist, the elect lady.

Youth Event to be held

"Relationships" will be the theme of the Third Annual Youth Event sponsored by the Pomona Valley Council of Churches. To include pantomime, film, drama, magic, and fellowship, it will be held 3:30-7 p.m. March 6 at the Claremont United Methodist Church, 211 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont.

"Relationships" will be explored through watching a film entitled, "Nail." A dramatic presentation on family relationships will be presented by Gary and Joanne Hobo. The pantomime, Armando Lucero will give insight through both mime and magic into the importance of relationships. Following these presentations, the young people (high school and college age) will then move into discussion groups and share their ideas with one another.

Woven throughout this program will be fun times as well as time for getting acquainted and fellowship. Refreshments will be served.

Various youth groups in the Pomona Valley will be responsible to act as registrars, plan the get-acquainted parts of the program, lead in the closing worship, and serve refreshments.

Purim festival

The festival of Purim will occur March 3. The story of the Purim holiday, through the reading of the Megillah-Scroll of Esther, will be told at Temple Beth Ami at the 7:00 p.m. service March 3, at 3508 E. Temple Way, West Covina. "Purim is one of the happiest days in the Jewish calendar," said a temple spokesperson. "It commemorates the day when the Jews of Persia (5th Century, B.C.E.) narrowly escaped being victims of Haman's plan to exterminate them."

"Purim is the expression of the faith of the Jew that he will outlive all Hamans, all those who are bent on the destruction of the Jew. Purim brings to the Jew the message of courage and hope. There have been Hamans before; the Jews have suffered terribly, but they have survived them all. History teaches us that armies, governments, rules, far stronger than the Jews, have tried to blot the Jews out. To explain the existence of the Jews, one will discover that 'the story of Purim is not as fantastic as you think it is.' History does not work out like a Greek tragedy. It works out more like the Book of Esther. In that sense, at least Purim is eternal and the Book of Esther will never be forgotten," the spokesperson added.

"Purim teaches us we must not depend on miracles. We might fight the evil on many fronts — by working for peace and democracy in the world, for freedom and liberty for all and by performing our duties as citizens loyally and intelligently."

Temple Beth Ami will further celebrate the holiday with a school carnival 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. March 6. There will be a costume parade for students of the Religious School, followed by games, fun booths and lunch. The public is invited to participate. For more information call the office (213) 331-0515.

Ontario Baptist

Special programs of music and drama will usher in the Lenten season at Ontario First Baptist Church beginning Sunday. The Chancel Choir will repeat Gaither's "Alleluia" 6 p.m. Sunday. Linda Walker Irby will direct. On Sunday morning the church drama group, directed by Audrey Lightbody, will offer the first of seven Drama Interludes as part of the Sunday morning experiences of worship. Each interlude will feature the presentation of one of the Biblical characters surrounding Christ during His ministry. Geri Vick will offer an interpretation of Anna, the Prophetess. The Rev. Victor R. Gordon, associate minister, will preach on "What Do I Do With the Bible?"

Gas shortage: political crisis

By State Senator
Bill Richardson

For the past three years, producers and suppliers of natural gas have been issuing warnings of an impending shortage of this precious fuel source. Despite these urgent pleas, governments on both the state and national level have continued to jealously guard their powers to regulate natural gas production and pricing.

Just because regulation has been an abject failure is no reason to think that the government's grip on energy production is going to be loosened. On the contrary, it is far more likely that the current natural gas shortage will result in increasingly stringent controls, perhaps culminating in nationalization of the industry.

To understand the current predicament, we must first understand that it is not an energy crisis. It is a political crisis. We suffer not from a shortage of natural gas, but rather from an overabundance of political control and regulation of the means of production and distribution. Thanks to the unseasonably harsh weather in recent weeks, this political control is now being extended to consumption as well, with energy commissioners ordering factories to close their doors and citizens to set their thermostats at officially established levels.

I am sure that there are some misguided people who feel it is immoral or unpatriotic to question the necessity of these political controls. I do believe, however, that it is patently foolish to expect the same bureaucratic minds who largely constitute the present problems to find the solution.

Economically speaking, the price of natural gas is too low. We don't have to like that fact to recognize that it is, indeed, a fact. This artificially low price, imposed on gas suppliers by politicians seeking brownie points with the voters, has two disastrous effects on the supply of natural gas. First of all, the cheaper natural gas is, the more of it industry and consumers use. That is simply the law of supply and demand. Secondly, the artificially low price makes the production of natural gas only marginally profitable at best, and a losing proposition at worst.

Yet, the political leaders will continue to coax, encourage, and finally command that gas companies increase production. The politically imposed solution is simply, "it doesn't matter if you lose a few cents on every gallon produced, you'll make it up on volume." I hate to be unpatriotic, but that is utter nonsense. The problem is political regulation and the solution is political deregulation.

Is there a natural gas shortage?

Hundreds of factories have been closed to provide natural gas for schools and homes, so an actual shortage, does exist. But it was created by people who know a great deal about regulation and very little about natural gas.

Is the current shortage a crisis?

Again, the answer is yes to those hardest hit, but we will all know when it is a crisis of truly national significance. As some economists put it, it is a shortage when we cut off natural gas to factories in order to heat schools and homes. It is a crisis when we cut off natural gas to schools and homes in order to supply vital industries. Likewise, it is a crisis when the housewives, picketing the local grocery store over high prices, throw down their picket signs and rush into the store to beg the grocer to sell them more. It is a crisis when the unemployed union workers march on the Capitol pleading for right-to-work laws so that they will have a chance to work and support their families.

We need not suffer such a national crisis but if we look for a solution to our energy problems from the same bureaucratic minds which gave us the United States Postal Service, it could happen. Remember, only last year the advocates of natural gas price regulation said that if we did not maintain price controls, the poor in the northern states would be unable to afford natural gas and they would freeze to death. The controls were retained, the regulators regulated and the political leaders turned their attention to the "national disgrace" of unemployment.

Last week, these same political leaders, bundled up in sweaters and mittens for the benefit of the media photographers, announced to the nation that there was a natural gas shortage. Their political solution threw two million Americans out of work. On, about those poor people in the northern states who would be freezing to death now if we had de-regulated the price of natural gas ... they're freezing to death.

(Richardson, a Republican, represents the 25th District, which includes San Dimas and La Verne.)

Conservation Corps accepting applications

State Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65) announced that the newly established California Conservation Corps (CCC) is accepting job applications from young men and women interested in conservation work.

The program is open to people aged 18-20.

The CCC, established by Governor Jerry Brown, is a pilot program which is hoped to be the foundation for a national public service corps. The program's goal is to give young people the chance to learn skills while at the same time working to preserve natural resources.

Corps members will be expected to commit a minimum of one year of their time. They will receive room and board and be paid from $260 - $355 a month. Corps members will have weekends free (except during orientation or when work duties conflict), and two weeks' vacation a year. After an orientation period, corps members will be assigned to one of several base centers where they will live and work on jobs such as building trails, cleaning debris from streams, wildlife and watershed protection, developing public parks, assist in fighting forest fires.

Applications and information on the CCC are available throughout the state at all offices of the Departments of Motor Vehicles, Employment Development, Parks and Recreation, Fish and Game, Water Resources and Conservation. Persons also can write the California Conservation Corps, 1530 Capitol Ave., Sacramento, CA 95814 or by calling (916) 445-3793.

Schaffer's 'Black Comedy'

Play set at Chaffey College

Chaffey College's winter-quarter play "Black Comedy" will be performed at 8:30 p.m. on Feb. 25-26 and March 4-5 in the little theater.

The play by Britisher Peter Schaffer hinges on the chaos in the life of a young sculptor occasioned by a power failure in his house.

The lights go out on the evening he is entertaining his fiancée and her father, a military careerist, along with a wealthy art collector. In the ensuing darkness, he also finds himself unexpectedly dealing with a spinster, a German refugee, a former mistress and his best friend whose furniture he had stolen to impress his guests.

Appearing as the sculptor and his fiancée will be Fontanan Armando Jose Duran and Uplander Bette Weimer. Others in the play will be Michael Delaney, Chino; Paula Papac, Ontario; Esteban Santos, Fontana; John Dailey, Upland; Mary Young, Cucamonga, and Tom Pearson, Alta Loma.

The director of the Schaffer play will be Catherine Johnson. Helping with the production will be Ralph Strane, C.A. Sheppard, Gary Skinner, Dawn Smith, Deborah Lombardo, Steve McGowan, Bette Raya and Holly Wallen.

"Black Comedy" premiered on Feb. 21, 1968, at the Lyric Theatre in London. Schaffer's other plays are "Equus," "White Liars," "Five-Finger Exercise" and "Royal Hunt of the Sun."

For reservations, call 987-1745 between noon and 3 p.m. at the box office and 987-1737, 822-4484 and 735-0242, extension 240, at the college.

UCR to offer 'Moonchildren'

RIVERSIDE — Milk bottles, free love and war protests are all part of the carefree, game - playing existence of college students in "Moonchildren," the next production of the University of California, Riverside, Theatre Department.

Written by Michael Weller, "Moonchildren" will play March 2 through 5 and 9 through 12 in UCR's Studio Theatre at 8:15 p.m.

The time is the mid-1960's and the atmosphere is one of change: open personal and sexual relationships, Vietnam war protests, the draft and a conscious attempt at a happy, what - me - care? attitude.

All of this generates some biting confrontations between "straight" and "hip" students, between students and their landlord, and in the changing allegiances of various friends.

Weller also shows middle - class America's insecurity, the influence of war and the personal problems of young people. What emerges is a blend of humor, anger and tenderness which depicts the way it was then, when life was confusing yet promising.

Director Jules Aaron says that Moonchildren "explores communication and feelings between people in a very funny and touching way."

Art Mendoza of Colton, who has appeared in such films as "New York, New York" with Liza Minnelli and "Billy Jack Goes To Washington," appears in "Moonchildren," as does Guest Artist Tom Reilly Sr. of Cherry Valley.

Also appearing are UCR Master of Fine Arts acting candidates Larry Barnes of Garden Grove and Robin Beth Levenson of Northridge.

Bruce B. Mathews of Los Angeles, Dianna Lee of Rialto, Jon Andrews of Riverside, Frank Ciraci of Canton, Ohio and Pamela Creager of Palm Desert all play college students.

Michael D. Dyer of Riverside plays the landlord, Dave Sewell of Hemet and Santiago R. Cortez of Sunnymead also appear.

Dance group

The Tamburitans, a dance group from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, will repeat their spectacular production of Eastern European folk music and dances when they appear in Fontana on Friday evening, May 20.

The "Tammies" dazzled a Fontana audience last year when they appeared locally for the first time. About 1,400 viewers attended that performance in the William Theodore Auditorium at Fontana High School.

"MAN OF LA MANCHA" — Tavern maid Aldonza, played by Ali England, is joined in song by the innkeeper (Randy Cupp) and Sancho Panza (Mike Hill) in the Citrus College production of the popular musical drama "Man of La Mancha," to play 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday at Citrus College Auditorium. For tickets call (213) 335-6116.

'Man of La Mancha' Musical to open Friday

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at the Citrus College box office for "Man of La Mancha," the musical drama that thrilled millions during its five-year New York run and played to packed houses at the Los Angeles Music Center.

The show to be staged at Citrus College Auditorium 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday will include songs which have become American classics, including "The Impossible Dream," "Dulcinea" and "Little Bird."

Produced by Citrus

College Musical Workshop and directed by Fred Vaugois, "Man of La Mancha" was adapted by Dale Wasserman from Cervantes' classic, "Don Quixote."

The role of the windmill - tilting cavalier is played by Calvin Coker and the role of Sancho Panza, his loyal squire, is played by Mike Hill. Ali England portrays the tavern maid, Aldonza. The dramatic stage set, designed by Bill Raoul, is of a Spanish Inquisition dungeon that converts into scenes of Quixote's sojourn into the country-side, including his visit to a squalid tavern he imagines to be a lordly castle. Costumes for Quixote and his ill - assorted compatriots have been created by The Theatre Group, an off-campus organization. Choreography for the show is by Harriet Davidson, with specialty numbers staged by Rikki Lugo.

Tickets may be obtained at Citrus College box office, open 1-5 p.m. weekdays. General admission is $3.50, with students, senior citizens and children under 12 admitted for $2.50. Special group rates are available. To reserve seats or for additional information call (213) 335-6116 weekday afternoons.

Five-part sea film - lecture series set

Music Center Presentations will offer a new five-part sea film-lecture series, "The Magnificent Sea and its sailing Vessels," during March and April in the Music Center's Pavilion.

In the grand tradition of MCP's 1975 series, "The Last of the Great Sea Dogs," "The Magnificent Sea" will open on Wednesday, March 2, with two films made and narrated on sound from England: "Old Worlds for New," detailing the exploits of the Tall Ships in the American 1976 celebration, photographed by Aaron Aardvark aboard the Polish giant Dar Par-moza sailing from Plymouth. He changes ships at Bermuda to sail aboard the British Sir Winston Churchill with an all-girl crew. The big Bermuda smashup is included! The companion film is "The Admiral's Cup '75," a film account of the grueling 10-day race off Cowes, photographed by a camera team led by Aardvark. As an added event, MCP filmed the San Diego sea trials of the American contender, "Enterprise," showing the new 12-meter sloop in her first sea encounter with her crew, skippered by Lowell North.

"L'Aventure Cousteau," narrated in person by expedition diver William Macdonald on March 30, goes behind the Cousteau scenes from the scientist's early years at sea, to the present, with superlative footage from the Cousteau library.

Capt. Irving Johnson presents, in person, his latest film, "Yankee Sails the Nile," on April 13. This is a West Coast premiere. And, on April 20 Johnson returns with his "Around Cape Horn," brought back by popular demand. After intermission that evening, we round the treacherous Cape, again, in the international yacht race which began in Plymouth in 1973: 17 yachts from nine nations, in which lives were lost. This British film, "The Savage Seas," is narrated on sound.

The final event of the season, on April 27, "The Rosenfeld Art and the Sea," has America's leading marine photographer, Stanley Rosenfeld, narrating this motion film under production for a year with MCP.

Health Tips

Sinus infection

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

The sinuses are air-containing spaces in the front of the skull and in the bones of the face. The most important sinuses lie above and below the eye sockets and behind the bridge of the nose. They are lined by a moisture-producing mucous membrane. Moisture normally drains unnoticed from the sinuses into the back of the nose and down the throat; this may amount to a quart or more per day. The purpose of the moisture is to humidify the air we breathe and is necessary for the proper functioning of the respiratory tract.

Though frequently blamed, the sinuses usually are not the cause of nasal stuffiness and headache. Most often the upper respiratory tract is reacting allergically to some biological or physical factor in the environment. Abnormal nasal drainage is commonly related to infection, or it may be an allergic reaction to pollens and dust.

Sometimes, temperature changes and fluctuations in barometric pressure are to blame.

Although sinus infection (sinusitis) is not as common as it appears to be in television advertisements, acute sinusitis usually does produce pain or discomfort on one side or the other of the face. The pain also may involve the side of the nose, the eye, the center of the forehead and the upper posterior teeth. About 98 per cent of the common frequent headaches usually attributed to the sinuses are due to some other cause.

The underlying cause of sinusitis is usually some interference with normal drainage of the fluid from the sinuses. The human upright posture predisposes to this by having the drainage openings in the upper rather than the lower portion of the sinuses. Trouble develops when infection or some other abnormality causes the sinus openings to become swollen or otherwise obstructed. Pus then builds up in the sinus and may cause infection. These changes may be seen on X rays. Unless drainage is restored the infection can become chronic with symptoms ranging from stuffiness to severe pain.

In treating sinusitis the doctor attempts to restore normal drainage from the sinuses by the use of antibiotics, antihistamines, and membrane shrinking medication.

Occasionally, pus needs to be washed out from the sinuses to avoid permanent damage to the mucous membranes and to enable the membranes to return to their normal state in the shortest period of time. If the lining of a sinus is allowed to reach the stage of chronic sinusitis and it no longer responds to medical management, surgical drainage may be required. Obstructions such as polyps or deformities of the nasal structures may also require surgical correction.

Nose drops sometimes may be beneficial if used for a short period of time under a doctor's supervision. Continued use causes chemical irritation and swelling of the nasal membranes, interfering further with breathing and proper sinus drainage.

Persons who are susceptible to sinus infection may have to restrict swimming, scuba diving and flying because of the barometric changes involved.

While serious sinus infection is not as common as generally may be supposed, its presence does warrant medical attention.

IRS issues

check warning

The Internal Revenue Service warned taxpayers to make checks payable to "Internal Revenue Service," written or printed in a legible manner.

According to officials at the IRS Fresno Service Center, about 10 per cent of the checks arriving at the center are not made out in the proper manner to provide the most protection to the taxpayer.

Taxpayers who make their checks out incorrectly in leaving the payee line blank, writing illegibly, or making the check payable to "IRS" risk being billed later for a payment they have already made.

Officials pointed out that the initials "IRS" can easily be altered to read "MRS. XXX" if the check falls into the wrong hands. Another major problem is that many checks are received with the payee line left blank or written illegibly.

Center officials said only a negligible number of such checks fall into the wrong hands and are altered.

Conference on education

"Education for Peace," a conference for kindergarten through ninth grade teachers and others interested in childhood education, will take place at Pitzer College in Claremont from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26.

Participants will also have an opportunity to become familiar with films and other multicultural and global education materials.

A registration fee may be mailed before Feb. 22 to the United Nations Association, P.O. Box 266, Claremont CA 91711. Further information on registration fees, and questions concerning the conference may be answered by calling 626-5710 or 626-7183.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written, informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home on The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money
